MRS. MCCOY'S MATH MINUTE

School does not end this week!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

>6th grade: We are having ALL kinds of fun reading The Number Devil and learning about all types of fascinating numbers. As one student asked, "Is this book kind of like math philosophy or math theology?" It kind of is! Students often have small homeworks related to the story.

>7th grade: We are finishing our study of scale and polyhedra. Yesterday we built some and today we analyzed them for a very interesting pattern. Notebook due Thursday.

>Pre-Algebra: We are doing some overall review and research. We will look a bit at cool number patterns and shortcuts. Last day is Friday!

>Algebra: The important Ch. 9 test is FRIDAY! Quadratic equations will be back in high school, but at least you will have the summer off! The extra credit opportunity is due Friday as well (Bunny Cage).

>7th Religion: We have finished Lesson 5 of Project Genesis. The students are participating well, and we have excellent discussions. There was a vocabulary quiz yesterday.

NOTEBOOKS AND SERVICE HOURS ARE DUE FRIDAY!!!

FROM THE DESK OF MRS. DUNN:

6th and 7th grade Social Studies - We are tying up our unit on ancient Rome by creating a history web - due Friday. Students will create images to represent Roman daily life, and will also write a paragraph about what they believe is Rome's greatest contribution(of which there are many, we've discovered!)

8th grade Social Studies - Students are finishing up their final essay - due Thursday am.

7th grade English - Students are writing a short realistic fiction story so they can showcase the writing and grammar skills they have learned this year.
